

GREAT ESCAPES

Simon Nixon, founder of moneysupermarket.com, travelsupermarket.com and, more recently, travel-guide website simonseeks.com, has a new baby: luxury self-catering property. But this isn't just any self-catering – the first to be ready in his portfolio is a house Simon originally bought for his personal use. Borth Cottage, below, in Abersoch, north Wales, sits on the unspoiled Llyn Peninsula and comes with a heli-pad, hot tubs, sauna, cinema and stunning views. Seven nights from £4,500, three-nights from £2,000.
